Steel Arrives For Cambel Building

R.D.I., Inc. — A Boon To Area Economy

R.D.I., INC. PLASTIC INJECTION MOLDERS

by Joe Schrader
When R.D.I., Inc. discusses its product volume, it talks in terms of millions. Literally millions.

Now in the process of re-summing production after a relocation move to the West M-72 Industrial Plaza, R.D.I. (formerly L.P. Plastics), began as a fledgling industry in 1973, manufacturing plastic arrow feathers for Bear Archery in a small facility which now serves as a warehouse for Carlisle Paddles, Inc. Thirty percent of R.D.I.'s production is still devoted to Bear Archery, for whom they also produce quivers, but the remainder of its product line is now aimed in another direction.

"The sale of the archery building and subsequent opening, along with our decision to consolidate and relocate, could not have been better timed," explained Ray Schuster, R.D.I. President and General Manager, about the recent move. The company had been operating three separate small plants in Grayling, two engaged in manufacturing, the third a tool shop. They have now all been combined into one operation in a leased portion of the Plaza consisting of just under 30,000 sq. ft. "What it boiled down to," Schuster explained, was a question of going to a four plant operation, an awkward and inefficient way to go, or move. The availability of Plaza space answered that question for us." The operation that began as a neophyte six years ago with three or four employees, expects its future to continue to brighten here in Grayling.

Now employing about 60 employees, the company expanded from the production of plastic feathers and branches out into the automotive industry, which now consumes the lion's share of its capacity. "We realized the need to diversify when Bear Archery announced its departure plans," Schuster said, "and we were well into the automotive market in March and April of this year." In order to corner a share of the market, though, R.D.I. had to purchase new equipment and accelerate its sales efforts.

Now the company produces some 35 products for the Big Three, although Ford Motor Co. is its major automotive customer. Products run the gamut from small molding fasteners to plastic horn housings. They are churned out on ten plastic injection molding machines arranged in a neat line in what used to be Bear Archery's Feather department.

Colored plastic granules are fed into the machines, which range in size from 75 to 500 tons, where they are melted down and molded into the desired product shape and size. Offal can be reground and used over again. Products are then

Prosecutor Kent Answers Critics

You have been informed by the media and otherwise that a conflict presently exists between the office of Prosecuting Attorney and the County Board of Commissioners. Those reports are correct, but are understandably incomplete.

This communication will be an attempt to explain the nature of the problem fully from my perspective.

Joins Mental Health Staff

Thomas L. Shavalia, 31, formerly of Monroe, last week joined the North Central Michigan Mental Health Center here in Grayling as a Clinical Psychologist.

Shavalia's duties will include providing individual treatment for clients seen by all agencies. His work will also include case consultation and crisis intervention services. Within the community he will work with M.D.T., handling consultations requested by local agencies.

A graduate of Eastern Michigan University, where he also earned a Masters Degree in Clinical Psychology in 1978, Shavalia was employed most recently by the Monroe County Probate Court, where he did psychological evaluations of juvenile offenders and supervised a 9-bed unit in the county (See Joins Staff on page 12)

It is not my intention to address the matter again until such time as a final resolution has been achieved.

The Problem:

As you know, our system of government is comprised of three separate but equal branches of government; the executive, legislative and judicial branches. These separate, but equal branches interact with each other in accordance with a system of checks and balances as defined by law. One branch of government may not impermissibly or illegally impinge on the function of another branch of government and when such disputes arise, they are traditionally resolved by application of law.

Such a dispute has arisen in this county between the executive branch (the Prosecutor's Office), and the legislative branch (the Board of Commissioners) as a result of the following:

A. When I assumed office on January 1, 1977, I did so within the constraints of a budget established prior to October 31, 1976 to become effective January 1, 1977. Among other things that budget provided for the position of assistant prosecuting attorney at a salary of $5,000.00 per annum. With minimal variation, the framework of that budgetary arrangement has been observed until the present time.

B. On October 26, 1979 without any opportunity for consultation or previous notice and two days prior to the scheduled hearing on the 1980 county budget, I was informed by written communication from Finance Chairman Bidvia that the position and funding of assistant prosecutor had been eliminated for next year.

C. Review of the law applicable to this matter indicated to me that the Board was probably acting beyond the scope of its legal authority by eliminating the position and/or funding for the position. I notified the Board of my findings on October 29, 1979 and supplied the Board with the legal (See Prosecutor on page 10)

Holiday Recipe for Fun

Line the streets with jovial citizens, add holiday bedecked store fronts, mix in the sound of music, top your recipe off with Santa Claus and what do you have? It's easy. All the necessary ingredients for a gala downtown Christmas Parade, designed to usher in the Yuletide Season! That's what is planned the evening of Monday, November 26th when the Second Annual Christmas Parade will provide the entertainment in downtown Grayling as the lights are turned on to welcome Santa on his first public appearance of the year!

The Parade, expected to get underway about 7:00 p.m. will feature Ol' St. Nick himself, along with musical groups, floats and numerous other parade entries. Also on the evening's docket will be lighting of the Christmas trees in front of the county building. Downtown Grayling is expected to virtually dazzle in Christmas brilliance as we all head toward the day Santa (See Holiday on page 12)

Jack B. Hull Named Manager

Industrial Plaza Offers Economic Growth

FRONT VIEW OF WEST M-72 INDUSTRIAL PLAZA

by Joe Schrader
The West M-72 Professional & Industrial Plaza welcomed its first tenant earlier this month with the consolidation and relocation of RDI, Inc. (formerly L.P. Plastics) into the facility. Almost concurrent with RDI's move was the announcement by Miller-Christensen Real Estate, Inc., a partner in the Plaza enterprise, that Jack B. Hull of Grayling has been appointed Property Manager for the complex.

Hull, a Grayling resident since 1952 and 1960 graduate of G.H.S., was associated with Milltown Realty prior to the appointment. He is also an investor in the Industrial Plaza along with George A. Dice, also of Grayling.

Richard T. Miller, President of Miller-Christensen, a Midland-based real estate firm, said that Hull is now licensed with the company as a Realtor-Associate and that, in addition to his duties as Property Manager, will be offering full real estate services as he has in the past.

Hull has now opened an office in the Plaza and is actively seeking tenants for the sprawling, 128,000 (See Industrial on page 2) packaged and warehoused prior to shipment in R.D.I.'s own truck which makes shipments to the motor city and back several times a week.

R.D.I., Inc. is now in the process of finishing its office areas and lunchroom, and, time and weather permitting, plans to refinish the exterior of its section of the building in a Milltown motif before spring. The Plaza also houses the company's engineering office and tool room.

Schuster, who came to R.D.I. in June, along with "Top" Cornell, Sales Manager and Werner Christman, Tool Engineer, all from U.S.M. Corporation, said that employment will begin to increase come January 1st and will probably exceed 100 sometime in 1980. Ray Priebe, Product Development Manager, and three production supervisors, round out R.D.I.'s management team. Eight people are employed both in the office and tool room departments, the balance are production workers. The company's three operating shifts, which run from 7 a.m. to 7 a.m., are evenly balanced personnel-wise.

Indicative of R.D.I.'s production spiral is the fact its sales are up 200-250% over last year even though the automotive industry is depressed. "Business really took off for us in July," said Schuster, who still commutes from his Indian River home to run the Grayling facility.

Normal production activities were expected to resume this week following the relocation to the Plaza, a move which took only two weeks to complete. Finishing of offices and other interior work is expected to be complete in the near future.

R.D.I.'s move was made possible by a $70,000 Urban Development Action Grant to the City of Grayling who loaned the company the money for remodeling and renovation purposes. Schuster explained that the effort to obtain the grant, which may well be the first of its kind made in Northern Michigan, was a joint, coordinated effort between the city and the company. The money was made available through the Federal Housing and Urban Development Commission.

The company's decision to expand its operation here in Grayling will provide a much-needed boost to the area's economic future, providing employment opportunities for local residents.

And R.D.I. isn't discounting future expansion possibilities either.

Vike Gridders Make All-Star Squads

by Joe Schrader

Three Viking gridders were named to the Michigan Huron Shores All-Conference team in balloting held in Gaylord last week. Four others gained honorable mention status.

Named to the All-Conference team were Bill Lucksted, George Bindschatel and Matt Mahaney, all seniors. Junior QB John Junttila received honorable mention along with seniors Todd Dunckley, Jerry Lucksted and Tim Jones.

Bindschatel and Mahaney were standouts both offensively and defensively for Coach Bill Klinger's squad this season, as was Lucksted who finished third in league scoring with 58 points. He tallied nine TD's in conference action and finished behind only Doug Mead of Gaylord and Greg Elliot of Cheboygan in that category.

Lucksted has been a varsity member for three seasons and has made the All-League team two years. He was the Vike's leading rusher and pass receiver this past season as well as leading scorer. On offense, Lucksted was a running back - wide receiver and played in the safety position on defense. He is also on the kickoff and punt return squads.

Grayling's leading tackler with 103 this past season, George Bindschatel has played two years on the varsity squad. He recorded two interceptions this season and scored one TD as a tight end on offense. Bindschatel is the "monster man" on the defensive team.

Mahaney, an All-Conference pick, received honorable mention as a junior last season. He was the team's second leading tackler with 90 from his linebacker and defensive guard positions. He also played guard on the offensive squad and recovered two fumbles this year.

Senior Jerry Lucksted, Bill's brother, was second leading rusher and scorer for the Vikes from his half-back position. On defense, he played end and defensive back, recording 74 tackles and covering two fumbles.

Matt Mahaney

Todd Dunckley was a versatile performer for the Vikes this year in his third year on the varsity squad. He did all the kicking-punts, extra points and field goals. He was 3rd leading rusher and scorer.

Junior Quarterback John Junttila received honorable mention in his first season on the varsity team. Junttila had 32 completions on the season for 714 yards and six touchdowns. He also served as a backup safety man and punter.

Tim Jones, Grayling's other honorable mention pick, was a tight end and split-end on offense and linebacker and halfback on defense, for the Vikes. He played on all the squad's specialty units and recorded 48 tackles this season. Jones had three interceptions for the year and knocked down a 2-point conversion attempt against St. Ignace that saved the game for Grayling.

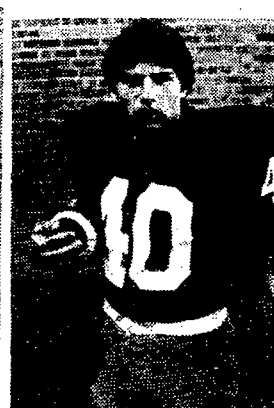

The Vikings piled up 125 points this season against league opponents, giving up 94. They finished up in sole possession of third place with their 5-2 record enroute to a 7-2 won-loss season. Junttila tossed six TD passes in league play, finishing second to Eric Kehler of Gaylord with seven.

Cheboygan and Gaylord who finished 1-2 in the conference this year both placed four players on the elite All-League squad.

sq. ft. complex. R.D.I., Inc. is presently occupying just under 30,000 sq. ft. in the building, leaving the balance available for lease by industrial and professional businesses.

Referring to the opening of the Plaza, Hull termed the venture "just another positive move in the renaissance of Grayling." The Plaza, besides being in an ideal geographic location, has space available ideally suited for occupancy by small to medium business concerns.

Of the space in the building available for lease, 10,000 square feet has been designated for business and professional offices and is located in the front of the facility. Indicative of the Plaza's capability of quickly absorbing industrial tenants is the R.D.I. move. The company managed to consolidate three separate operations into one segment of the building within 30 days of its decision to lease there, and resumed limited production within two weeks from the time the actual move started.

"There has been interest shown on the part of several manufacturers and other business and professional concerns in leasing portions of the Plaza," Hull said in a recent interview. He said that optimistically, "it's possible to have the building completely occupied by 1981."

Hull is now in the process of preparing brochures outlining the merits of the Plaza and the community of Grayling for wide-spread distribution throughout Michigan. He sees no limit to the potential tenants the Plaza has to offer interested parties, whether professional, industrial, business or service oriented.

It allows Grayling's economic climate an opportunity to grow and prosper once again and will provide employment potential to the community and its residents.

With the purchase of the property, the investment firm, M-72 Associates, has given the Grayling area an unequivocal and much-needed vote of confidence.

Hull resides in Grayling with his wife, Pamela and children, Tracy and Todd.

GRAYLING, MICHIGAN — THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 15, 1979

From Our Corner ...

We've been quite perturbed this past week, to put it mildly ... Ever since Iran put the some 60 Americans into custody over their demand for the United States to send the Shah, who is being treated in a New York Hospital, back to Iran to stand trial ...

Now first off, these Americans are innocent bystanders when it comes to authority to make decisions on a government level ... Yet, they are subject to practically imprisonment for something they did not do or had any control over ...

This has perturbed us ... But what has perturbed us most, is what is going on here in the United States by students and sympathizers of Iran ... marching, striking, sit downs, and what have you, and asking for the downfall of the United States ... If these same persons performed in Iran, Russia or Cuba they would be tossed in the bastille, or even shot ...

Seems like every day last week, we would become more nauseated on the reports we read how this country that has little, but for oil, telling Uncle Sam what he should do ...

Instead of even thinking about sending the Shah back to Iran, Uncle Sam should make a trade ... send the some 6,000 students and whoever backs Ayatollah Khomeini, in exchange for our 60 Americans over there. If this could happen, we like to suggest they send them home by way of a slow boat to China and let them make their own way south to the fatherland ... Maybe they could demonstrate on their long walk from Peking ...

We do feel a little better this evening after hearing that President Carter is taking a more drastic approach to the situation from that which we read last week ...

No way should we allow someone like Ayatollah make Uncle Sam cry uncle ...

Melancholy is beginning to set in with the ole fella ...

Tonight's corner, if everything goes right, will be the next to last effort written at the Avalanche office that has been in this building for 101 years ... Although we have been getting the new location ready the last couple of weeks, we hope to make the total move by the end of November ...

The Avalanche is making it's move down to the building that also houses J & R Florist at the end of the block, near the county building.

The move was brought about when there became a time when we were not using most of the machines used in hot type printing, and we did not need so much room ... We will continue to do the work at the new location that we are presently doing ... The only change in the Avalanche will be the location where it is all put together ... We will also continue with our commercial printing as we are now ...

More next week as count-down comes closer ...

We had to make a fast trip to Mt. Pleasant Monday to take Section B of this week's Avalanche down to have ready for Wednesday. So we called MaGee, Grayling's voice for the Detroit News, to ride shotgun with us ... MaGee has lived up here for a couple of years, but he toiled for the News for some 53 years, and he still thinks it's the only paper in Michigan ... We've tried to brainwash him on the merits of the Avalanche, but he won't listen ... When we called him to make the ride he consented only if we stopped at the Green Spot on the way home and have a couple of childdogs and an orange pop ... We assured him we would because we really like their childdogs ...

Our Monday was just made ... We had a call from Dane, way out in Nevada ... Everything is fine with our Nevada family, Cyd and Amber are okay, and now this weekend we'll find out about our T. C. family ... Seeing as how this is the opening of the white-tail season, and our son-in-law John is an avid hunter, and they have a camp out west of Grayling, between here and Kalkaska, Grandma and I have been designated babysitters for T.J. and Stef for the weekend as Toni and friends are going to join the hunters Friday night through Sunday ...

Plan now to attend the nondenominational Thanksgiving Services on the Grayling State Bank lawn, corner of Michigan Ave. and Peninsular St., Wednesday, November 21st at 12 Noon.

Have a good weekend ... and to all you hunters, be safe before you shoot ... don't be sorry ...

46 YEARS AGO

November 16, 1933

Deer hunters are usually looking for tracking snow when the hunting season opens. This year there is an abundance. Fully 18 inches of snow covered the ground on the level and in many places the drifts were quite deep. Besides, the recent heavy fall of snow seemed to hang to the trees and foliage, thus making visibility difficult and also making travel in the wild lands anything but pleasant. And an unusually low temperature didn't make hunting any too pleasant. The temperature during the early morning hours was down to 5 degrees above zero, and with a damp atmosphere, quite unusual to Northern Michigan, the air had a penetrating chill.

Frank Wetzman and Aleck Schriber of Detroit are spending a few days in Grayling, enjoying the hunting.

Farnham Matson visited his sister, Miss Elizabeth Matson at Battle Creek College, Thursday of last week. Friday he was accompanied home from Ann Arbor by his parents, the Efrer Matsons, who have been there for the past two weeks, the former having been a patient in the University Hospital.

Tod Wheeler is doing the janitor work at the school these days while Sherman Neal is trying to fill his deer license.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Ewalt, of Flint, were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Peterson and family.

Bernard Bromwell and Stanley Palmer of Ludington and Fred Bromwell of Lake Leelanau are guests at the home of their sister, Mrs. Adolph Peterson for their annual deer hunt.

Ex-Governor Wilber Brucker of Detroit is among the notables in this section enjoying the deer hunting. He, with a party of friends, arrived Tuesday and they are guests at the Northwoods Club at Lovells.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Heruann (Mildred Bates) of Grand Rapids, are receiving the felicitations of their friends on the birth of a son at Grayling Mercy Hospital, Friday evening. He weighed 6 3/4 lbs., and will be known as Jack Bates Hermann.

Marius Hanson and Stanley Stephan spent last weekend in Grayling visiting their respective parents, returning to Big Rapids Sunday, where they are students at Ferris Institute.

Clare Melroy of Indian River has opened his gas station during hunting season.

The Bible Speaks

From Calvary Baptist Church

A PASTOR'S DILEMMA

Galatians 4:12-16

Paul pleaded with the churches of Galatia to follow his teaching and example rather than the Judaizers who taught legalism. Verse 12. Paul reminds them that they had accepted him at first even with physical illness. Verse 13. On the contrary, these people had almost worshipped Paul as a spiritual leader. Verse 14. Paul says they loved him so much they would have sacrificially given him their very eyes to advance his ministry. Verse 15.

How could Paul have been so popular with the Galatian churches and then suddenly become their enemy? "Am I therefore become your enemy, because I tell you the truth?" Verse 16. The churches of Galatia were following the error of the legalistic Judaizers and therefore viewed Paul as an enemy for reminding them of the truth. This has been one of the most difficult things for me to accept in Grayling. Some people brand me as their enemy because I love them and tell them the truth. People demand truth in most areas of their lives, but in religion they are willing to believe and live a lie.

Most false teachers are very enthusiastic in leading people and enjoy deceiving them into false beliefs and practices. "They zealously affect you, but not well; yea, they would exclude you, that they might affect them." Verse 17. Now there is nothing wrong with enthusiasm or zeal if it is exercised toward good or truth. Verse 18. But the pain upon a pastor's heart when one of his sheep decide to follow error is compared by Paul to a woman in childbirth. Verse 19.

Paul says the next step is to talk to his erring sheep in person: "I desire to be present with you now, and to change my voice; for I stand in doubt of you." Verse 20. It is difficult to rebuke sheep for error and then to have them brand you as their enemy for telling them the truth. Only the words of Jesus "well done, thou good and faithful servant" can compensate for the hurt. (adv.)

Observes 90th Birthday

Mrs. Laura McLeod was guest of honor at the Masonic Hall on Sunday, November 4, to observe her 90th birthday. She is one of our Centennial Princesses who has lived her whole life here in Grayling. It was a beautiful tribute to her as so many friends came to wish her "Many Happy Returns".

Laura's granddaughter, Mrs. Richard McLeod, cut and served the birthday cake from the center table, which was covered with an heirloom linen cloth, and held glass candle holders with blue candles which matched the blue and white decorations on the 3-tiered cake, made by Mrs. Marvin Moore of Roscommon. Sandwiches, coffee and punch were served by members of St. John Lutheran Church Women and the Order of Eastern Stars. Mrs. Ingeborg Raee attended the guest book.

Family members present included her son, Bill McLeod and his wife Dorothy, grandson Jon McLeod, Grayling; another grandson, Richard McLeod and his wife, Ronnie, great grandsons, Billy and Mike McLeod, Mio; daughter-in-law, Mrs. George Schroeder, Clawson and Mrs. Gladys Aldrich of Traverse City. Other guests were from Royal Oak, Lansing and Bear Lake.

Laura had a twinkle and a tear in her eyes as she greeted her friends and family. Her day started with Communion at St. John Lutheran Church. Pink and white flower arrangements were placed on the altar for her by Dorothy and Bill. It was after the service that she was told there would be a "Coffee Hour" for her ... Surprise! Her life has been centered in her family and Church where she served diligently in the Sunday School, and any other area where she was needed. She is a member of the St. John Church Women, still attending the monthly meetings. She is a Past Matron of the Order of Eastern Stars, a Life member who gave willingly of her talents. God has touched Laura with His love.

Dorothy and Bill McLeod hosted the party.

Dear Sirs,

We the members of the Crawford County Helping Hands Club wish to thank WGRY for their announcement, about a family who had the misfortune of burning out. And through them we were able to see that they had clothing, and a more permanent place to live.

The Crawford County Helping Hands is not advertising or well known, that is why we are glad that WGRY makes a strong effort to bring these types of mishaps to the attention of the public in this area. Thank you again.

Sincerely
Donald Vradenburg, Pres.

The Car Wash that the helped out.

Bill Greene donated a

Larry Gust donated 3

I would also like to thank

Santa's Workshop To Be Held

The Grayling Cooperative Nursery School will sponsor its third annual "Santa's Workshop" Saturday, December 8, from 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. This year the workshop will be held at the Nursery School Building.

Santa's Workshop was designed so that children can shop and buy gifts for everyone on their Christmas list. Nursery School parents will assist children as they shop and make their selections. While the children are shopping, parents can relax with a cup of coffee secure in the knowledge that their child is buying just the right gifts at the right prices. All gifts will be in the $2.00 and under range.

Parents will also have the opportunity to buy goods from our "Bakery Table", select handmade ornaments from our Christmas tree, or buy special craft items from our "Adult Table."

After the children are through shopping, they will have an opportunity to have an unrushed visit with Santa who will be at the workshop all day. Mark Saturday, December 8th on your calendar and plan to be on hand for the Third Annual Santa's Workshop.

CUB SCOUTS DEN 5—The best things we did so far in scouts were horseshoes and fence vaulting. We had knife safety and made knot boards and bird houses. We all liked the dog that we had for our play. Some other things we did were put things out to get birds to come. We studied deer hunting laws and made plaster casts of an animal track. Job Openings In Air Force

SELF-REFRIGERATING ANG—Immediate job openings are available in the Air Force, Lieutenant Colonel Raymond F. Hunter, commander of the 3554th Air Force.

Recruiting Squadron, Selfridge ANG Base, announced. "We are able to offer a variety of incentives to young men and women who select and can qualify for key jobs," Colonel Hunter said.

Incentives include: An initial assignment to the Air Force Base of the applicants choice from among the more than 60 bases available. Locations are in states like Hawaii, Florida and California, cities like Denver and Las Vegas; - The chance to live in Germany, Italy or Spain, or any of a dozen foreign countries on the initial assignment; - Accelerated promotions, meaning more money, more quickly for those who select certain career fields.

"New airmen will be guaranteed the job they choose, or a general career area they choose, and for which they qualify," Colonel Hunter said.

Interested young people between the ages of 17 and 27 are invited to contact their local recruiter for further information.

SAVING ENERGY IS A FAMILY AFFAIR —
EVEN FOR FIDO

Autumn's end and the cold days of November remind us that we have only a few more weeks before winter begins and Christmas is here! If you haven't already made out that "inevitable" Christmas list and need a few suggestions, why not give someone a new energy-saving appliance, such as counter-top convection oven or one of the old reliables, an electric blanket.

The counter-top convection oven is new and it saves energy. Convection ovens use electrical energy, just as do conventional electric ovens, but they do so more efficiently. The air inside a regular oven is almost motionless and cooking depends on the gradual conduction of heat from the outside of the food to the center. In the convection oven, a stream of power-driven air, produced by a high-speed fan, swirls continuously over a standard electric heating element. This produces uniform heat throughout the oven.

Energy is saved because the cooking task is speeded up; foods can be cooked at lower temperatures and the wattage of these counter-top units is less than full-size electric ovens.

Don't let the energy situation change your plans to buy other small appliances as gifts. Most small appliances use very little energy. Because they are designed for specific jobs, they are more likely to be better energy savers than general-purpose appliances. Further, their uses are often infrequent and short in duration.

Electric blankets, which could make excellent gifts for everyone on your list, are also energy savers. Using an electric blanket at night will keep most people warm even if the furnace thermostat is turned down. Dialing down the furnace thermostat setting 5° over an eight-hour period each night can reduce total heating bills more than 1% for every degree dialed down. A 5° night setback will reduce fuel consumption by approximately 7% annually. The amount of energy the electric blanket uses to keep you comfortable at these lower room temperatures is considerably less than you save in home heating.

One last suggestion. A consulting engineer in Denver, Colorado, has designed and built a solar doghouse. Placed in one direction, the doghouse stores heat in the winter; turned around, it reflects the sun's heat in the summer.

Watch For Fall Ice On Bridges

Fall weather frequently produces unpredictable and hazardous weather conditions on highway bridges, the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) reports.

A combination of freezing temperatures and high humidity causes thin coatings of ice and frost to develop on unprotected bridge surfaces. Such conditions are especially prevalent on early fall mornings. Warm ground temperatures keep adjacent highway surfaces clear and dry, but moisture freezes on bridge surfaces that are exposed to cold drafts from below as well as above.

Martin O'Toole, MDOT engineer of maintenance operations, warns motorists to "slow down and avoid sudden moves while on any bridge."

"Frost is difficult to detect until you're already on the bridge and then it may be too late if you're not prepared to handle it," he said. "It's wise to approach every bridge as if it was a slippery one."

To help motorists, MDOT maintenance crews spread brine, a dissolved salt solution, and wet sand on bridge surfaces when frost or ice develops. The department also has erected diamond-shaped yellow and black signs ahead of all bridges.

They warn: "Watch For Ice On Bridge".

Instructional Wedding Takes Place

by Stephanie Fick and Lisa Weiss

On Tuesday, November 6, at 9:45 a.m., the instructional wedding for Mrs. Prause's and Miss Valuet's 1st Hour Contemporary Family Life Class, between Barbara Hoffman and Nathan Gibbons, took place at the Michelson Memorial United Methodist Church. This is an annual procedure for the class and it helps the students to learn more about what it takes to put on a complete wedding, and the cost that the couple must pay in order to be united in marriage.

The bride, Barbara Hoffman, and the groom, Nathan Gibbons, were selected at random during class, approximately three weeks prior to the wedding. They, in turn, chose their own attendants. The matron of honor was Terri Latusek and the bridesmaids were Corrine Christman and Julie Parkinson. The best man was Matt Mahaney and the groomsmen were Bill Bonkowski and Gregg Stancil. Acting as "father of the bride" was Mr. Tom Mills.

Reverend George Spencer performed the instructional ceremony for the class and explained the general procedure for most Methodist weddings. The members of the wedding party were dressed in actual gowns and tuxedos and the remainder of the class attended the wedding as guests.

A reception was held in the church basement immediately following the ceremony. A beautiful wedding cake was prepared for the couple and the guests by "Puff" Denton and "Cappy" Westervelt. Food for the reception was furnished by Bourrie's and the Grayling Restaurant.

Both of the 1st Hour classes would like to thank the following individuals and agencies for helping to make their instructional wedding a big success. They all did a wonderful job!

Thanks to: Olson's of Grayling, Flowers by Josie, Bourrie's, Ben Franklin, Mac's Drugs, AuSable Manistee Realty, Glen's Market, Rev. George Spencer, "Puff" Denton, "Cappy" Westervelt, Mr. Tom Mills,

Also, Dorothy Whitter, Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Wert, Davis Jewelry, A & P Grocery Store, Black and White Foodland, Milltown Party Store, Goodale's Bakery, Grayling Restaurant, Ole Dam Party Store, and Cornell Realty.

Thanks again to all those who gave us their support! the 1st Hour Contemporary Family Life Class authority I had gathered at that time. I also requested, that the Board supply me with any legal authority it had in support of its action and to date, have received none.

Prosecutor

D. On October 29, 1979 without any consultation or recitation of authority, the Board, over my objection, eliminated the salary previously established for the Chief Assistant Prosecuting Attorney and adopted its 1980 budget as proposed.

E. On November 2, 1979 in a meeting with a representative of the Commission I offered to resolve the dispute by simply asking the Attorney General for an opinion which would be binding upon myself and the Board. I felt that this method of resolution would be fair and would not cost the citizen's of our community any money. I have now been informed that the Board has rejected this suggestion and has indicated that they prefer to take this matter to court.

F. By rejecting my offer of November 2, 1979 and not suggesting any alternative format, the Board has left me without a forum for the resolution of critical legal questions raised by the Board's action, other than the courts.

Previous personnel and budget cuts have crippled the law enforcement effort in our county. As Chief Law Enforcement Officer, I cannot tolerate a further erosion of our ability to fight crime without protest. The citizens of our county have a right to expect that criminal offenders will be brought to justice and it is my sworn duty to do all I can to protect this public interest.

The work-load in the Prosecutor's office has increased continuously since I assumed office in 1976 and we are now ascertaining a record number of criminal convictions. This office has functioned successfully because of the past personnel allocations and I feel obligated to the law abiding citizens of our community to vigorously oppose the elimination of the position of Assistant Prosecutor. It is for the people of our county and their peace of mind that I oppose the elimination of the position of Assistant Prosecuting Attorney.

In addition, I oppose the Commissioner's action to eliminate the position of Assistant Prosecuting Attorney for the following reasons:

1. Eliminating the position of Assistant Prosecuting Attorney is a poor business decision which will eventually cost the taxpayers more money. The past three decades prove because of scheduling conflicts a special assistant prosecuting attorney will need to be appointed frequently at a cost of $30 or $35 per hour. The amount paid out during a year will most likely exceed the annual salary for the Assistant Prosecuting Attorney ($5,350.00).

2. It is my feeling that the Board's action is illegal. As the Chief Law Enforcement Officer it is my sworn duty to enforce the law and to ignore the Board's action would be a dereliction of that duty.

3. The law enforcement effort has been drastically crippled by budgetary and personnel cut-backs in our Sheriff's Department and the elimination of the Assistant Prosecuting Attorney position further impedes our ability to fight crime.

4. The Board's decision is essentially unfair. Virtually every other assistant department head in county government received a raise in the 1980 budget. If the Board is interested in saving money, and still providing adequate services to our community, it does not seem reasonable to cut one essential function in order to provide extra money to increase the salary of other functions.

Accordingly, in an attempt to carry out the duties of my office as the law requires and to fulfill my commitment to this community it is my intention to take whatever action is appropriate to oppose the elimination of the position of Assistant Prosecuting Attorney. In an effort to avoid a lawsuit I have contacted the Attorney General and asked for his opinion regarding the Board's action. If, after receiving the Attorney General's opinion, I am not able to persuade the Crawford County Board of Commissioners that their action is illegal, I will take the matter to court.

Naturally, the opinion of the Attorney General will be released immediately upon receipt.

Respectfully,
Thomas E. Kent
Prosecuting Attorney

Lansing Report

Rep. Ralph Ostling

County Rainy Day Fund Introduced

Last week two bills to aid counties in coping with economic uncertainty were introduced in the Michigan House by my Republican colleague State Representative Drew Allbritten of Grand Rapids.

The bills would permit counties to establish budget stabilization funds, in the same way that the state and other units of government can; and would exempt those funds from expenditure or consideration as revenue during a negotiating session or in a collective bargaining agreement.

When the Legislature originally approved the budget stabilization bill, counties were inadvertently left out.

County officials in various parts of the state brought this to our attention and urged the Legislature to rectify this flaw in our present statute.

With economic conditions so uncertain and with inflation raging upward, counties like other units of government, have to set aside funds for the future. If they don't, valuable programs could be seriously cut if the economy in our state takes a plunge.

As you may remember, the concept of a budget stabilization was introduced several years ago by Governor William G. Milliken. Called the "rainy day" fund, it serves as a hedge against an unsure future.

The fund has been in existence since 1975 and has about $240 million in it right now. Unemployment figures and projected economic forecasts can trigger the fund, but the monies must be appropriated by the Legislature.

Under the provisions of these bills, the county could put money aside each year and be assured that it would not be considered revenue during labor negotiations. Presently, if a county decides to save funds on its own, those funds can be considered as assets.

These two bills are not controversial, and I hope they are approved promptly.

PEG Group

Begins in Area

PEG (Parents Experiencing Grief) group to begin in this area. Purpose of the group is to help parents understand and cope with their feelings following the loss of an infant either through miscarriage or death.

Meetings will be held alternate Thursdays beginning November 15, 1979 at 7:30 p.m. at the Cooperative Extension Bldg. in Roscommon.

The group will be led by Jean Scott Denley, M.S.W., Infant Specialist, and questions may be directed to her at North Central Michigan Mental Health Center in Grayling, 348-8522.

DON'T LET THIS BE YOUR ANSWER ...

WITHOUT YOUR HELP, THE ABOVE BLANK MAY BE A REALITY!!!
OUR COMMUNITY DESPERATELY NEEDS A NEW AMBULANCE ... NOW!!!

The Crawford County Ambulance Corps has issued a call for help. Their present ambulance is seven (7) years old ... it must be replaced. There are NO funds available from the County for a replacement ambulance. So ... citizens of Crawford, let's do it for them.

The Crawford County Ambulance Corps is totally manned by volunteers. This dedicated group of E.M.T.'S is on call 24 HOURS A DAY for each and every one of us. Each volunteer has spent months taking classes taught by Tony Doremire ... they continue to take classes to make sure that we have the best emergency service in the State of Michigan. Each of them has passed very difficult State tests ... THEY'RE GOOD!!

BUT, their life-saving talents are worthless without a SAFE AND EFFICIENT AMBULANCE. Their present ambulance should be used ONLY as a back-up vehicle. HELP THEM TO HELP YOU ... let's all get together and buy ourselves an ambulance ... NOW!!!

HOW MUCH??? A fully-equipped modular ambulance that meets every Federal and State requirement will cost $35,000 — that figures out to about $3.50 for every resident of our County.

LET'S DO IT NOW — SEND YOUR CONTRIBUTION TO:
CRAWFORD AMBULANCE FUND
P.O. BOX 553
GRAYLING, MICHIGAN 49738

THANK YOU FROM YOUR E.M.T.'S: TONY DOREMIRE, MIKE HAUXWELL, MAHLON RIKER, JIM KRAUS, PATTY KUCHAREK, JIM GRAY, DEAN GOSS, JOHN WILCOX, ROXANNE ADAMS, FRED REICHELDERFER, and, the Citizen's Committee Caring for Crawford County.

PLEASE — SEND AN AMBULANCE ...

WE'RE ON OUR WAY ...

LANSING—As this year's hunting season gets into full swing, the Department of Natural Resources says don't shoot until you are sure of your target.

Even experienced hunters can become over-anxious during the first few days of hunting season, says Jim Walker, DNR hunter safety coordinator.

"When I go hunting, I make a conscious effort to keep in mind at all times the potential for an accident. I always know where my hunting companions are."

Walker takes pride in the fact that hunting accidents in Michigan are on the decrease.

Last year there were a total of 95 hunting accidents in the state, including five fatalities. In 1977 there were 137, including 12 fatalities, and in 1976 a total of 161, including 5 fatalities.

Although fatalities vary from year to year, Walker says the important figure to base any trend on is the total number of accidents.

"The difference between a fatality and a serious injury can be as little as a quarter of an inch," he points out. "The true indicator of increased hunter awareness is the total number of accidents each year."

Walker sees two main reasons for the decline in total accidents over the past three years—mandatory hunter safety training for young people and Michigan's hunter orange law.

Safety training for young hunters 12 to 16 years of age became mandatory in 1970. Now each year over 50,000 young hunters participate in the courses, which are sponsored locally throughout the state in cooperation with the DNR.

"Many of our young hunter graduates of that training are no longer youngsters," Walker points out. "They are now young adults and have entered the age group that used to account for the majority of hunting accidents. They now have the know-how and sense of responsibility needed to keep hunting a safe sport."

Michigan's hunter orange law, which went into effect in 1970, is also responsible for a decrease in accidents, Walker feels.

Prior to 1970, hunter accident reports indicated that a number of hunters were mistaken for game and were accidentally shot, especially by their own hunting partner. The hunter orange law requires hunters to wear either a vest, jacket or cap of a highly visible orange color.

"Those types of accidents have decreased, but there is still room for improvement," Walker says, "even during the bow and arrow deer season."

DNR statistics show that a record 205,700 people went bow-hunting during the 1978 deer season, far surpassing the previous record of 176,760 set in 1977.

"Bow safety is becoming a paramount importance because of the increasingly large numbers of people bow-hunting," Walker says.

The state's hunter orange law does not apply to bow hunters, who depend heavily on effective camouflage in order to remain undetected until a deer is within their effective shooting range.

Walker says that in order to be effective, arrows must be extremely sharp, so therefore extreme care must be taken when handling them.

"A bow hunter should always use a rope to hoist his arrows up to himself after climbing a tree or tree stand. Pull them up after you and likewise, when descending, lower your bow and arrow down by rope first, then climb down. That way you protect both the arrows and yourself."

For the small, but rapidly growing group of hunters who pride themselves on the use of that classic firearm, the muzzleloader, Walker says it is important to use only black powder that is commercially manufactured and specifically designed for use in muzzleloading firearms. The only alternative to this is the specific brand of powder known as Pyrodox from the Hodgdon Powder Company.

"Pyrodox is a black powder substitute. It doesn't have as dangerous a property as black powder," Walker says.

If you happen to have a hangfire, Walker recommends waiting for a few minutes with the muzzleloader pointed down.

"If it still hasn't gone off, try another primer, and if it still doesn't fire, take the muzzleloader to a competent gunsmith, who has special tools to pull the lead ball out of the barrel."

While most hunting accidents happen in the field, hunters should continue to be careful when in camp.

"Knives and axes used around a hunting camp, or even a chain saw, can lead to injuries if not used properly," he says.

Finally, Walker offers a few rules and tips for enjoying this fall's hunting season safely.

—Never point a loaded gun at anyone.

—Treat every gun as though it were loaded.

—Check your target carefully before you take aim — is it game or your friend in the brush?

—Never look at people through the scope of your rifle.

—Always unload your gun before crossing rough terrain, up and down steep hills, and over fences.

—Keep your gun in good shape. Check it frequently for obstructions, such as snow or mud in the barrel.

—Carry older single action revolvers in a covered holster to protect the hammer and trigger from brush. Always keep the chamber under the hammer empty.

Thanks for Tribute

So that everyone may know of the great honor we feel was bestowed upon our late husband and father, we would like to thank them for a beautiful tribute. Thank you, Sister Hilda, for having the picture painted; Jack Witter, for arranging the program; Jack Alef and Emil Kraus for your messages; Norman Lesinski for serving an attractive and delicious lunch; and all of the doctor's, dear friends and associates from Grayling and out-of-town who attended. The unveiling of his portrait is a treasure we shall cherish forever.

These Packaging Tips Can Assure Safe Arrival of Christmas Gifts

Our oil companies have an embarrassment of riches

RICHARD MILLIMAN

IF IT CAN EVER be embarrassing to possess too many riches, the various world-wide oil companies probably found themselves in that position recently.

The top 15 oil companies released figures on their earnings for the third quarter of the year — and they should have gone to the corner to hide their collective heads.

Their earnings were some of the highest in history, and were reported at a time when more and more Americans were struggling to try to keep up with spiraling inflation, fed by higher and higher gasoline and home heating oil prices, among other things.

TEXACO REPORTED profits 211 percent higher than the same period last year. Exxon chalked up a gain of 118 percent. Mobil hit 131 percent, Conoco marked a 135 percent gain, Standard Oil of Ohio went for 191 percent. And so it went.

Most of the oil companies had explanations of why they were profiting while their customers shelled out more and more money to buy their products. For example, Texaco said its earnings levels were misleading because they were compared with "abnormally low earnings" from last year, and this year's figures included a one-time gain from tax writeoffs due to foreign operating losses and tax credits in previous years.

Other oil companies had similar excuses for their towering profits, most of which, it seems in perusing the explanations came from overseas operations and not from the $1.00-plus motorists pay for gas these days.

IF ANYONE WONDERS why "big oil" is a target of public criticism and scorn in these times of energy crunch, you need only review the recent history of gasoline prices at the pump, and compare them with the profits earned by the oil companies. Try as they might, the oil companies simply cannot convince the public there is slight relation between the two, if any.

Big oil's earnings also assured passage of the Carter proposal to tax "windfall profits," which the oil companies have been fighting tooth-and-nail for many months. I went to one pro-oil presentation a while back where the oil spokesman pointed out how difficult it would be to distinguish "windfall profits" from plain old regular profits, and how unfair it would be to assume oil profits are "windfall" from the energy crisis.

What are "windfall profits" indeed? Ask any motorist. She-he can tell you.

PRESIDENT CARTER might be getting a complex of some sort these days. Things just don't seem to be going right for him.

Take the Chicago situation, for example.

Mr. Carter went out of his way to visit Chicago recently, paying tribute to Mayor Jane Byrne, and overtly courting her support in the Carter-Kennedy presidential fracas. Mayor Byrne even managed to get a federal concession or two out of the President.

For her part, Mayor Byrne allowed as how if the election were held right then, she would support Mr. Carter. She also indicated as Mayor of one of America's largest cities, she had to maintain a sound relationship with the federal government, which of course, is headed by Mr. Carter.

THE PRESIDENT beamed at Mayor Byrne's stance. He assumed with some logic that Mayor Byrne was in his corner — or at the least, that she was not openly in favor of Mr. Kennedy, although Jane Byrne had been a Kennedy backer most of her political life. To neutralize Mayor Byrne, if not actually winning her support, was quite a Carter triumph.

Also, it appears, it was a short-lived triumph. Mayor Byrne has now decided to support Mr. Kennedy publicly, basing her apparent switch on her interpretation of how folks in Illinois feel. Mr. Carter has only minimal support in Illinois, she indicated, so she must be where the people are — that is, with Sen. Kennedy.

Ah, politics. It's a wonderful, mystical adventure. Just ask Jimmy Carter.

If the post office clerk tells you that your Christmas gift package won't go, it's because we want to be sure it will arrive at its destination safely. Postmaster Baker said today.

"Some customers get upset when their packages are so poorly wrapped that we can't accept them for mailing, but we do it for their own protection," Postmaster Baker said. "Of course, our clerks point out the deficiencies and explain how they can be corrected."

Postmaster Baker said the problem of poor packaging is particularly troublesome during the Christmas mailing season when the mail volume rises dramatically.

To avoid delays and assure safe arrival of Christmas gift packages, Postmaster Baker offered these suggestions:

Wrap each item individually with enough padding to prevent damage from shock and vibration. Separate wrapped items from outer package surfaces with padding or foamed plastic. Heavy items should be braced with fiberboard pads to prevent shifting and damage.

Fiberboard containers are recommended for all items weighing more than ten pounds. Paperboard containers are acceptable for up to ten pounds.

—Never carry an automatic pistol with a round in the chamber, even if the safety is on.

—Shoot at game only in your zone of fire. Never cover your friends or strangers when shooting — the bird or animal is not worth the chance.

—Sight in and sharpen your skills at a shooting range before you go hunting. Don't wait until you get into the woods to practice.

—Don't empty your gun at the end of the day by shooting the rounds that are left. It is not only dangerous, but it also destroys the peace and quiet of the forest for others.

Vikingland Happenings

by Joelyn LaChappelle and Jane Stamm

Grayling's last football game was played Friday, November 2, 1979, at home against Petoskey. The Vikings came out ahead with a score of 28-12. The junior varsity team played Thursday and lost to Petoskey 36-0. Good try guys!

The cheerleaders sponsored an after-game victory dance and everyone wearing sunglasses got in for a reduced price. The cheerleaders did a great job.

The Yearbook Staff is getting off to a good start this year. They have decided to publish a summer book, with approximately two hundred pages and therefore, graduation will be included and the members of the staff will not have to rush as much. There are approximately fifty members with Diane Hatley as general editor and Tina Hamilton, Jana Ludeman as senior editors. Patti Hill is junior editor. Joelyn LaChappelle is sophomore editor and Jenny Alef is freshman editor. Section editors include: Mary Ann Kersch, Arlene Munks, Dave Shires, Diane Hatley, Joelyn LaChappelle, Karen Williams, and Yvonne Steffes. Jane Stamm is copy editor and Tammie Messerschmidt is treasurer. The merchants of downtown Grayling have been very helpful in the purchasing of advertisements and this year's yearbook should be one of the best!

"The Mouse That Roared" was the fall play presented by Mr. Howard Taylor and his cast on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, October 27th, 28th and 29th. The play was a success, with a great turn-out from the community. The cast had a lot of fun preparing for the play and they were glad to see so much support from the community.

Marsha Graves was chosen as Co-op Student of the Month. She is a senior at Grayling High School and she works at DiPonio Ford in Grayling. Congratulations Marsha!

Mrs. Nancy Lemmen, the Spanish teacher at the high school, is planning a trip for the Spanish students to Mexico in the Spring. This trip is not completely organized, but they plan to leave soon after school ends. This should be a lot of fun and a good experience for the students who are going.

Mrs. Lemmen is also selling t-shirts with Spanish sayings on them. Many of the students are purchasing them and they seem to be "going over" real well.

The Vikings are proud of their football team this year. The varsity and junior varsity both did exceptionally well this year and have had a lot of support from the community at their games. The Vikings are now looking forward to their basketball season which is coming up, and the other winter activities such as volleyball and the ski team.

Tax Institute In Gaylord

DETROIT—Seats are still available for the University of Michigan-sponsored income tax institutes scheduled for Marquette and Gaylord, next week. Similar programs scheduled at nine other locations around the state are expected to be "sold out" well in advance of their scheduled dates.

The two-day program in Marquette is November 13 and 14 at the Ramada Inn, 412 W. Washington Street; in Gaylord it is November 15 and 16 at the Chalet Motor Lodge, I-75 at M-32. Registration is at 8:00 a.m.

The institutes are intended principally as refresher courses for persons in the tax return preparation business. Instructors are employees of the Internal Revenue Service, and the Michigan Department of Treasury.

Persons interested in obtaining additional information should contact the University of Michigan Extension Service at 313-764-5304 in Ann Arbor.

Tips on Cooking Venison

by Merrill Lacasse

Extension Home Economist
By applying a few basic cooking principles, you can turn the hunter's venison trophy into tasty mealtime treats, to be enjoyed long after the hunt.

Knowing how to use and cook the various cuts of venison is the secret to good eating. The toughness of the cut determines the cooking method as well as the types of dishes in which a cut is best used.

For recipes using ground meat, select from these venison cuts: hind and fore shanks, leg meat, shoulder, flank and breast. Grind the meat and use it in your favorite dishes. If the meat is too lean, add beef fat when you grind it.

To make stews, start with one of these cuts: hind and fore shanks, leg meat, shoulder, rump, flank or breast. Cube the meat and use it in your favorite stew recipe.

The best steaks come from loin and rib cuts and tender round cuts. Tougher round cuts make excellent swiss steak. Legs of venison and loin and rib cuts make delicious roasts.

Flank and breast cuts are good for soup. The best pot roasts are made from shoulder, neck and rump cuts. For corned venison, use shoulder or rump cuts.

Most of venison's gamey flavor is in the fat. Minimize the gamey flavor by trimming away all the fat possible before cooking. This will leave the meat rather dry, so you might want to add suet, butter, pork fat or bacon to it while cooking.

Suggested methods for cooking deer meat include braising and stewing (moist heat methods) and roasting, broiling and pan-broiling (dry heat methods). Follow the instructions below:

Braising: (shoulder, neck, breast cuts). Season meat with salt and pepper, rub with flour. Brown on all sides in hot fat. Add a small quantity of water (about a cup). Cover tightly. Cook very slow until tender (two or three hours), turning the meat occasionally.

Stewing: (shoulder, shank, neck cuts). Cut meat into one-inch cubes. Season with salt and pepper; sprinkle with flour. Brown on all sides in hot fat. Cover with boiling water. Cover tightly and cook very slow until tender. Do not boil. Add vegetables just long enough before serving time that they will be tender.

Roasting: (round, loin, shoulder cuts). Season with salt and pepper. Place on rack in uncovered pan, fat side up. Do not add water and do not cover. Bacon strips or beef suet may be laid across the top. Roast in slow oven (300-350 degrees F), allowing 20 to 25 minutes per pound. Turn the roast occasionally for uniform cooking.

Broiling: (steaks and chops). Place steaks or chops on the broiling rack with top surface three inches below source of heat. Turn oven controls to broil. Broil on one side until nicely browned and then turn to other side. (For a one-inch thick steak, the time required will be 7 to 10 minutes per side). Season to taste after cooking and serve at once.

Panbroiling: frying (steaks and chops). Heat a heavy frying pan until it is sizzling hot. Rub the pan with a little suet or small amount of cooking fat. Place the meat in the hot pan. Brown both sides, turning only once. For thick chops or steaks, reduce heat after browning to finish cooking meat.

For more recipe ideas, contact the Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service office in your county and ask for bulletin No. 657, "Venison ... Upper Peninsula Style."

For Breach of No-Fault Accident Victim Awarded $175,000 In Damages

by Joe Schrader

The highest jury award in Otsego County history was recorded last Thursday when $175,000 was awarded to Mr. Lloyd Theisen of Gaylord who was injured in a truck accident in 1974. According to Thomas R. Rensberry, Gaylord attorney who represented Theisen, the jury award was in addition to approximately $23,000 in benefits due under his insurance policy through Michigan Mutual Automobile Insurance Co., which had refused to pay under the state's no-fault insurance provision.

In a release from Rensberry's office, dated November 2nd, he indicated that Theisen's right knee had been badly shattered in the single vehicle accident, involving a truck he was driving, owned by Vincent Held. He was hospitalized and underwent two surgeries, including a bone graft to correct the knee. Mr. Theisen filed a claim for no-fault benefits with his own insurance company, Michigan Mutual and a claim was also filed with Protective Insurance Company, who insured Mr. Held. The insurance companies did not dispute the fact that Mr. Theisen was entitled to benefits. Rensberry indicated, however each insurer refused to pay the claim on the basis that the other company was liable.

Rensberry said Theisen tried to work at several jobs while still in a wheel chair or using crutches and even though both insurance companies were aware of his personal and financial difficulties, still refused to pay.

The jury returned a verdict finding Michigan Mutual liable for all damages and awarded the $175,000 to compensate Theisen for the mental anguish he suffered.

Volunteer Aides have been helping the children and educators at the Grayling and Frederic Elementary Schools for the past eight years. They have become an integral part of the schools. This year is no exception and several volunteers are again actively involved in the schools.

The basic requirements necessary to be a volunteer are: enjoy working with children, an interest in community involvement in education, be willing to help in one or several areas, be dependable and in good physical health and feel a commitment to the goals of the Volunteer Aide Program.

The Volunteer Aides participate in many learning experiences and activities, such as: tutoring students to help them improve their reading skills, assisting in the classroom, library aide, lunchroom aide, playground aide and especially busy day aide.

It is not difficult to qualify. You will find it is a rewarding experience. The amount of time you give to this program is up to you. We will help you work out a schedule that is convenient for you and the teachers. It may vary from several hours a week to an hour a month. It is strictly up to you.

Why not become involved today in this rewarding experience. If you have any questions about the program please feel free to call Cheryl LaDuke at 348-7641, ext. 52.

One shot at an insulator can drop a city in its tracks.

I know, because I'm a Consumers Power lineman, and it's my job to search for the cause of a power failure. People who shoot out insulators forget that a single shot can bring down a house, a factory, a hospital or even an entire city. That's why Consumers Power offers substantial rewards for information resulting in either the arrest and arraignment, or the apprehension of persons responsible for damage to our property. So, if you have information concerning such an incident, please contact a local police agency or call Consumers Power.

Ease the World Energy Problem In the Privacy of Your Own Home

If you have a forced-air heating system, check the ducts for leaks, because they can waste up to 9 percent of your heating dollars. Patching with a roll of insulation tape will usually do the trick. (And while you're at it, check the filter because if it is dirty you are not getting the heat you paid for.)

Setting the thermostat down by only five degrees for eight hours each night can save up to 15 percent of your fuel costs.

By the way, keep the radiators dusted, and if you paint them use flat paint, not enamel.

Hot water heaters throw away money at an alarming rate. For example, as much as 14 percent of their heat escapes through the walls of the tank. Many hardware stores now carry do-it-yourself insulation kits; these cost about $20 but can pay for themselves in about a year as energy prices rise.

Reducing the hot water setting from 140 degrees F to 120 degrees F will use about 18 percent less energy.

Like to take baths? That costs more these days, too. If you shower instead, that will save about 2,000 gallons of water a year — and the fuel required to heat it. And putting a $1 flow restrictor in the shower head can save a family of four up to $40 a year.

The easiest way of saving on hot water is by not using it to begin with. So don't leave a faucet running; use cold water for laundering, and wait until the dishwasher or washing machine are full before switching them on. If a hot water faucet leaks, your money is going down the drain. One drop of water per second amounts to 650 gallons a year. With that, you could run 59 loads of dirty clothes through the machine. And all it takes to stop that drip is a five-cent washer.

In the kitchen, if your stove is electric, turn off the element a couple of minutes before a dish is done; residual heat will finish the job for nothing. And if you're cooking with gas, check those pilot lights; if the flames are not blue, they are costing you a penny by penny.

Boiling water in uncovered pots is a real energy loser, but then so is using a little pot on a big burner. And use cold water for the waste disposer, too; it couldn't care less.

Then there's lighting. In terms of today's energy prices, incandescent bulbs are downright primitive because about 90 percent of the energy they use goes into heat, not light.

Fluorescent fixtures and reflector bulbs are much cheaper to operate for a given amount of light, but if you are stuck with incandescents, don't wait for bulbs to burn out, but replace them as soon as they begin to get dim. Stay away from tinted bulbs and avoid "long-life" bulbs because they are the most inefficient of all.

And where bright light is needed, one bulb may be better than two; for instance, one 100-watt bulb produces more light than two 60-watt bulbs.

Each one of these tips may not only save you money, but will also help you bail the entire nation out of its energy jam, which may sound odd until you look at a couple of figures:

If all American households cut the use of dishwashers by one load a week, the aggregate saving would total 3.25 million barrels of oil a year.

And if all home hot water heaters were properly insulated, this could save 60,000 barrels of oil a day. That's almost 22 million barrels of oil a year, or a cut in the nation's trade deficit of $440 million.

All in all, energy conservation demonstrates the ant-and-elephant principle: How did the ant carry the elephant across the bridge? One bite at a time!
